Dear Amit,

For shipments 661 and 662, the initial request from Nutrire was to place the booking with Hapag for December 14.

Please note that Maersk still has space available on the vessel departing December 10. If this is a suitable option for you, we can check cargo readiness and proceed with this vessel.

Just for your reference, bookings 659 and 660 are already allocated on this same sailing.

If you prefer to proceed with Hapag, we'll continue our booking attempts and keep you informed

Please note that regarding invoices 633 and 634, Hapag has confirmed our bookings on the vessel departing November 27, also citing a lack of space on the November 18 sailing — even from Navegantes. May we proceed with the bookings on this date?

For your reference and to support your analysis, please find below a spreadsheet showing the ETD and ETA for each booking.

Alternatively, we could try to secure space with ONE — vessels are currently under review starting from week 47. What do you think?

Good afternoon, dear Amit!

I hope you're doing well!

As per our conversation via WhatsApp, Hapag is declining our booking requests from RIG to Jebel Ali, citing lack of space on the upcoming sailings.

Therefore, we contacted Nutrire this morning and rescheduled the shipments as follows:

Inv 633 and 634 – will be shipped with Hapag via Navegantes on the vessel with ETD November 18th. The bookings have already been confirmed by the carrier; however, the transshipment was set incorrectly (via Shanghai). We requested the correction to Singapore + Tanjung Pelepas and are awaiting feedback, which we expect to receive later this afternoon.

Inv 635 and 636 – will be shipped with Maersk via Rio Grande on the vessel with ETD November 26th. These bookings have already been confirmed, and we'll share the details with you this afternoon.

Inv 637
