Dear Djesica good day

We are in contact both the cnee and shipper. MSC is the strongest option currently but we are waiting cnee's firm approval as they'll be paying for freight and we must have their written confirmation.

Kindly request you to wait a little bit more.

Thank you for your chasing and patience on these orders.

Dear Djesica good day,

Thank you!

Offered to cnee but as the workhours have passed and there is weekend ahead of us, we won't able to reply you earlier than Monday.

If you try to secure space today, would you be able to cancel the booking free of charge? Maybe we can place booking to secure space, but if cnee decided another carrier, we want to be able to cancel without extra costs.

Let me have your comments on this.

Hello, dear dear Çağdaş!

Yes, we have been in contact with the shipper and informed them about the situation. Currently, Maersk offers the most competitive rates, but it is also the carrier facing the greatest difficulties with space availability. This situation was already reported to the shipper and to IFF even before we received the first shipping instruction.

With the other carriers, we can secure space more easily; however, the freight costs are higher, as follows:

Rio Grande X Istanbul, Turkey

Via Tanger Med – TT 41 days aprox.

Carrier: Hapag

Validity: Sep 30th, 2025

OF: USD 1450,00/ cntr 40'HC

Carrier: MSC

As far as I know, this order was inactive until further notice. Did the shipper confirm to you that PO-25012-4 will be shipped along with the other one as well?

Good morning, dear Çağdaş! How are you?

Please note that we have been closely monitoring the Maersk platform and, at this moment, all vessels from Rio Grande to Ambarli remain closed. According to the carrier, this is due to the restriction of food-grade containers and the significant backlog of cargo in Brazil. They have informed us that there is no forecast for reopening space on these vessels, but that we should continue monitoring the Maersk platform.

Considering the current scenario, I would like to inform you that we will keep monitoring the platform and keep you updated. In case immediate shipment is required, I would also like to check if there is a possibility to proceed with another carrier for this SI.
